Abstract

To Application number 10/040,712

This product is a disposable male incontinence device that is lightweight, easy-to-use and discreet for the customer. A low-tension elastic band holds the cap snugly around the head of the penis. The inner lining is constructed of highly absorbent cotton fiber with a one-way flow for moisture, similar to that found in feminine napkins and baby diapers. Because the inner lining is highly absorbent, the moisture is maintained in the lining, and away from the skin, which allows for repeated use after urination, if the customer chooses.
